Matt Fifield January 2011

"If the question is to influence them to pass legislation that's going to weaken environmental laws that's going to weaken federal and state air and water quality, the answer is no".